ABSTRACT

This is a report of a survey of 48 Lutheran colleges and universities, 11 Lutheran seminaries, 20 Piedmont University Colleges, and 17 other colleges and universities. The Piedmont University College System is made up of several small institutions in North and South Carolina. The bulk of the report contains tabulated responses of each institution to 4 main items of a questionnaire: 1) Arrangement, advantages and disadvantages of Saturday classes, if they are held (approximately 70% of the institutions did not hold Saturday classes); 2) Academic term arrangement (approximately 60% of the institutions were on the semester, 15% on the quarter, and 20% on the 4-1-4 system); 3) Availability of and various policies concerning summer employment for faculty (approximately 80% of the institutions had employment available if desired); and 4) Sabbatical leave program (approximately 65% of the institutions reported programs). There is no discussion of the responses. In addition to the survey data, there is a listing of 142 institutions on the 4-1-4 calendar system, 48 considering its adoption, and 3 that were formerly on the system but discontinued it. (DS)

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Indebtedness is due to all contributors listed in the survey, who gave their prompt and knowledgeable support to the questionnaire-project. Detailed information and valuable statistics essential to the compilation of this survey have been furnished by the cooperative efforts of Dr. Clark H. Bouwman of Florida Presbyterian, Dr. Jack L. Armstrong of Macalester, Dr. Charles E. Angell of The College of the Ozarks, Dr. William C. Vernman of the University of Massachusetts, Dr. Henry von Moltke and Mrs. Lee Winebarger of Lenoir Rhyne College.

Tireless and dedicated assistance has been rendered by Charles T. Britton, student typist and director, who supervised a group of students* in the tedious process of tabulation, collation, and xeroxing.

St. Olaf College
Northfield, Minnesota

St. Olaf College, which is on a Trimester plus a 4-1-4 in the Clayton Survey, is on 4-1-4 according to the list furnished by Dr. Armstrong.

Smith College
Northampton, Massachusetts

Smith College, which is on a "Semester with one week without classes in the middle of 1st semester and two week reading period at the end of each semester" in the Clayton Survey, is reconsidering the 4-1-4 according to Dean of Administration William C. Vernman at the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Massachusetts. Also according to Dean Vernman, Smith College is a member of Five Colleges, Incorporated, together with Amherst College, Amherst, Massachusetts; Hampshire College, in Amherst, Massachusetts; Mount Holyoke College, South Hadley, Massachusetts; and the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Massachusetts. During the 1968-'69 academic year, the long range planning committee for Five Colleges, Incorporated recommended a true 4-1-4 calendar for all five institutions in the group. The 4-1-4 proposal is under consideration now, and will remain under study for the remainder of 1969-'70.

Tennessee Wesleyan College
